MICHELLE ASH

Chief Innovation Officer, Barrick

Michelle Ash is Chief Innovation Officer at Barrick Gold. In her role, Ash oversees the company's Innovation program looking both at how innovation can drive productivity in the existing business as well as how it can be harnessed to deliver alternative business models. Ash joined Barrick in January 2016 and brings with her more than 20 years of experience in the mining and manufacturing sectors with a focus on business improvement and change management. She began her career as a blasting engineer with Rio Tinto.

Most recently, Ash worked for Acacia Mining in Tanzania as Chief Operating Officer, having served earlier as Executive General Manager, Business Improvement and Planning. In these roles, Ash drove shareholder value by spearheading business improvement programs that resulted in operational improvements and cost-savings. Prior to this, she served as the Head of Alliance Planning and Co-ordination at the BHP Billiton Mitsubishi Alliance where she was accountable for the leadership of strategic projects. Ash has held similar business improvement and strategic roles at other companies including the Minerals and Metals Group and Australian Vinyls.

Last year, Ash was named to the 2016 list of "100 Global Inspirational Women in Mining" by Women in Mining UK. Ash holds a degree in Civil Engineering and an Executive MBA from the Melbourne Business School; she also holds degree in psychology from Deakin University.

THE BRISBANE MINING CLUB

The BMC holds regular lunchtime events, that provide an opportunity to network and hear high-profile speakers give personal insights into the Australian and global mining industry.

The aim of the BMC is to create a forum that encourages stronger relations between many facets of the greater mining community in Queensland. The BMC events are held bimonthly at the Tattersall's Club, Brisbane. Larger special events are also held throughout the year at different venues in Brisbane.
