GEORGE SCHULLER

President - Peabody Australia

George J. Schuller Jr. is President of Peabody, Australia, and has had executive responsibility for Peabody's Australia operating platform since April 2017. This includes overseeing the areas of health and safety, operations, sales and marketing, product delivery and support functions.

George has more than three decades of experience with Peabody in senior management roles in both surface and underground operations in the United States and Australia. Most recently, George served as Chief Operating Officer for Australia. A position he held for nearly four years.

George has also held executive roles across engineering and global engineering services, project development, continuous improvement and mining support. He has managed surface and underground mines in central and northern Queensland and held operational positions of increasing responsibility at mines in Kentucky and West Virginia. This includes the North Antelope Rochelle Mine, the world's largest and most productive surface mine in the United States. He began his career with Peabody as a co-op scholarship student in 1985.

George holds an Honorary Doctorate and Bachelor of Science in Mining Engineering from West Virginia University, as well as a Masters of Business Administration from the University of Charleston, West Virginia.

George is Chair of Australia's Coal21 Fund, and holds various industry certifications and other board positions in both Australia and the U.S.

THE BRISBANE MINING CLUB

The BMC holds regular lunchtime events, that provide an opportunity to network and hear high-profile speakers give personal insights into the Australian and global mining industry.

The aim of the BMC is to create a forum that encourages stronger relations between many facets of the greater mining community in Queensland. The BMC events are held bimonthly at the Tattersall's Club, Brisbane. Larger special events are also held throughout the year at different venues in Brisbane.
